WILL IT TAKE PLACE?

The Sullivan Mitchell Fight Announced to Take Place To-morrow.

NEW YORK, March 8.—According to cable reports the prospects of a meeting between John L. Sullivan and Charles Mitchell grow better day by day, and at present it seems a certainty that they will battle with their fists. The fight is set down for March 9th, which will be to-morrow. It will probably be decided in France, near Rouen, and possibly on the same spot where Smith and Greenfield fought. Sullivan is said to be in fine fettle, and Mitchell is as fit as he can be.

If this is so and both men are in splendid fix, it will be a case of "eclipse first and the others nowhere." Sullivan's superior height, weight, length of reach and skill will land him an easy winner, and Mitchell will be a sorry "mug" when the fight ends. It is nonsense to suppose that he will have the best of the encounter because it is according to ring rules.

Many people forget that those rules allow clinching, which is prevented by the Queensberry code, and that Sullivan can get Mitchell's head in chancery, hold him up and pound his face to a jelly. This he can do, and will do, if the chance offers, and, barring accident, partiality of the referee or "gouging," John will whip Charley to a stand-still in short order.

LONDON, March 8.—Charlie Mitchell and his friends left here this morning for France, where it is supposed the fight between Mitchell and Sullivan will take place.

THE LABOR TICKET.

The Hoosiers Have One in the Field Quite Early.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8.—The state union labor party in convention yesterday nominated the following state ticket.

For Governor—Gen. J. B. Milroy, of Carroll county.

For Lieutenant Governor—J. F White, of Marion.

For Secretary of State—A. C. Geyer, of St. Joseph.

For Auditor—John P. Hannegan, of Tippecanoe.

For Treasurer—D. F. Doll, of Bartholmew.

For Clerk of the Supreme Court—J. C. Smith, of White.

Delegates to the National Convention—J. H. Allen, of Vigo, and Thomas Sharp, of Marion.

No nominations were made for attorney general or supreme court reporter. The central committee was empowered to fill both places. The platform reaffirms the Cincinnati platform of Feb. 22, 1887, opposes prison contracts, favors secret ballot, non-political management of benevolent institutions, the service-pension law, the furnishing of school books by the state, all the best known appliances in factories for the protection of employes, and the repeal of all laws allowing voting of taxes on the people for the building of railroads.

The President and Public Buildings.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—It is hinted by those who have visited the president of late that he will sign the bills now passed by congress making appropriations for federal buildings in the small cities, which bills he vetoed to the last congress. So there may be some hope for such places as Lafayette, Logansport, Richmond, etc., if the bills can be got through the house, where they now repose.

A DEAD RULER.

The Death of Emperor William, of Germany, at Berlin This Afternoon.

BERLIN, March 8.—The following bulletin was issued at 10:40 this morning:

"The emperor had a very restless night and is very weak this morning.

[Signed.] VON LAUER."

Doctors Leuthold and Tiemann remained with the emperor throughout the night. The grand duke and dutchess of Baden and the crown prince of Sweeden arrived this morning in a special train.

HIS SUCCESSOR.

An imperial decree, which was signed on November 17, was promulgated today. It provides for the representation of the emperor and king, by Prince William, in the discharge of current government business.

GRADUALLY SINKING.

LONDON, March 8.—A Berlin dispatch timed 2 p. m. says: The emperor is weakening. The doctors have faint hopes of his recovery.

BERLIN, March 8, 4 p. m.—The emperor is not able to recognize even the empress and is gradually sinking.

An immense, but silent, crowd is standing near the palace, notwithstanding the fact that a cold rain is falling. The palace is guarded by a force of cavalry. Business in the town is virtually suspended and the theatres are closed.

REPORTED DEAD.

LONDON, March 8.—A dispatch from Berlin states that the emperor died this afternoon.

STILL ALIVE.

BERLIN, March 8, 2:30 p. m.—According to semi-official authority the emperor at 1 o'clock, while more quiet, had not perceptibly gained in strength. Dr. Koegel, the court chaplain, was with the emperor between 12 and 1 o'clock this afternoon. The Prince and Princess William have been at the palace since 8 o'clock this morning. Prince Bismarck visited the place at noon and had a long conference with Prince William All the members of the imperial family in Berlin called during the morning.

TALKING TO THE EMPEROR.

4:50 p. m.—Shortly before 2 o'clock the empress and grand-duchess of Baden were with the emperor.

At 2 o'clock Prince Bismarck went to the bedside and the emperor spoke to him. Prince Bismarck left the palace at 2:45 p. m.

The crown prince of Sweden arrived in Berlin at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THE FAMILY GATHERING.

BERLIN, March 8.—At noon all members of the imperial family except the crown prince and princess, were in the rooms adjoining that occupied by the emperor.

At 12:25 the chaplain gave the last sacrament to the emperor.

The emperor was occasionally delirious before noon. Prince Bismarck visited the reichstag at 2.30.

THE EMPEROR DEAD.

6:45 p. m.—The emperor is dead.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

William I. (Wilhelm Friedrich Ludwig), king of Prussia and emperor of Germany, born March 22, 1797. He is a son of Frederick William III. and Queen Louisa. After the accession of his childless brother, Frederick William IV., in 1840, he became known as heir apparent. The revolutionary excitement of 1848 compelled him to withdraw to England for a short time. In command of the Prussian forces sent to Baden in 1849, he put down the republican insurrection there in a few weeks. His brother becoming ill in 1857, he acted in his stead, and in October, 1858, was formally installed as regent; and he succeeded him as king on Jan. 2, 1861. With the assistance of Von Roon he reorganized the army, and in 1862 he placed Bismarck at the head of the cabinet as minister of foreign affairs. After procuring in 1864 the cooperation of Austria in the Schleswig-Holstein war, he achieved a great victory for Prussia, and the convention of Gastein (Aug. 14, 1865) assigned Schleswig temporarily to him, and Lauenburg permanently. His confidence in Bismarck, Von Roon, and Moltke was fully confirmed by the rapid and brilliant success of the war of 1866 in conjunction with Italy against Austria in which he participated, and which extinguished Austria as a German power, and placed him at the head of the new North German confederation, with Schleswig-Holstein, Hanover, Hesse Cassel, Nassau, and Frankfort added to his Prussian dominions. The candidature of Prince Leopold, of Hohenzollern for the Spanish throne, and the king's refusal to hold further interviews with the French embassador, Count Benedetti, who had repeatedly importuned him a Ems, (July, 1870), became the pretext for the French declaration of war against Prussia. The South German states at once joined the North German confederation against France, under the lead of Prussia, and the war was a series of prodigious victories. William received at Sedan (Sept. 2) the surrender of Napoleon III. On Oct. 5 he fixed his headquarters in the palace of Versailles, and here, on Jan. 18, 1871, he was proclaimed emperor of Germany, and on Feb. 26 signed the preliminaries of peace. On March 21 he opened the first reichstag of the new empire. By his wife, the empress Augusta, he has one son, the crown prince (Frederick William Nicholas Charles), and one daughter, the grand duchess Louisa of Baden.

News at London.

LONDON, March 8.—The drawing room reception which was to have been held to-morrow by the queen, has been postponed on account of the death of Emperor William.

The Crown Prince.

SAN REMO, March 8.—The crown prince will leave here Saturday morning.

Prince Bismarck has telegraphed to Dr. Mackenzie inquiring whether the crown prince could not come to Berlin, instead of going to Wiesbaden as proposed.

SAN REMO, March 8.—The crown princes' condition continues to improve.

LONDON, March 8.—The British Medical Journal has a dispatch from San Remo to-day, stating that the crown prince's larynx is a little more swollen.

VERY SWEET.

The House Committee of Congress Commences an Investigation of the Sugar Trust Case.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The house committee on manufactories to-day began an investigation of the trusts. The sugar trust was the one selected to be the first investigated. John E. Parsons was the first witness. He is a lawyer of New York City, who had drawn up a deed of trust and explained its features.

MANAGER BALDWIN.

He Gives the Reasons for Closing the Shops of the Pennsylvania Company.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—The report that the Fort Wayne railroad shopmen were discharged because of fears of a strike is pronounced false by Manager Baldwin. "If our men want to strike," said he, "we should just tell them to go ahead. But in this case, we had no reason to expect one. We have closed down for good business reasons. Like every other railroad in the country, our business is falling off.

West of Pittsburg to-day we have about 2,000 gondola cars side tracked and idle. On account of the iron troubles there are no shipments of ore here, and the lakes being frozen there is no coal going west. We recognize that there is a storm ahead, for it is coming just as sure as you live, and we are furling our sails to meet it. We do not want to be caught in a gale with top-sails set. That is the sole explanation of our closing the shops. Everything else is buncombe."

PLAYED WILLIAM TELL.

Two Boys Reproduce the Ancient Drama, With Probably Fatal Results.

BOSTON, March 8.—The old story of William Tell, his son, and the apple, has a sequel that threatens to end tragically. The actors are Sumner Holland, thirteen years of age, of Somerville, the son of a prominent business man of this city, and his cousin of eleven years, also named Holland. The elder boy had a pistol of small calibre and some cartridges. He extracted, or thought he did, the bullets from some of the cartridges.

A few days ago the boys undertook to reproduce the ancient Swiss drama. Sumner took the part of William Tell, and the younger boy that of the son, with the apple. The pistol they thought would much better answer the purpose than a bow and arrow. When the smaller lad had taken position, he was fortunately stricken with sudden misgivings. He turned his head to one side with the exclamation: "Suppose there should be something in it?" just as his cousin fired. The movement saved the little fellow from instant death, for a bullet struck him on the right side of the neck. The wound was serious and the boy's condition became steadily worse until his life is despaired of.

She Asked For Bread and Got a Bullet.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., March 8.—A week or so ago George Millikin left his home and family to live with a woman named Hester Deweese, on a house boat on the Saline river. On Monday Mrs. Millikin went to the boat to ask her husband for some money to buy food for her children. Millikin met her outside of the boat, and while he was talking with her a bullet came crashing through the window of the boat, striking Mrs. Millikin and killing her instantly. The shot had been fired by the Deweese woman, and both she and Millikin are now under arrest.

THE "Q" STRIKE!

The Burlington Road Petitions the Court to Compel the Wabash to Handle Their Freight.

CHICAGO, March 8.—An application for a restraining order was made before Judge Gresham this morning, by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, to enjoin the receiver of the Wabash from refusing to handle traffic over the plaintiff's road, as required by law, and also to enjoin Arthur from ordering the members of the Brotherhood to refuse to handle engines for such purpose. Hearing is set for to-morrow afternoon.

The suspension of the intended strike on the Burlington & Northern road, says the Chicago Tribune, which was to have been inaugurated Monday at 7 p. m., was a stroke of far sighted policy. When the grievance committee in session Monday learned that there was cause for grievance on the Northern they found out also that there was cause for grievance on a number of other roads. To declare a strike on the Northern alone, a road which employs less than 125 engineers, both Mr. Arthur and the grievance committee saw plainly would accomplish little good. General Manager Harris had been expecting something of the sort and was prepared. Indeed, men were all ready to take the places of Brotherhood strikers the moment the latter stepped off their engines. President Perkins and General Manager Stone had the engines ready to turn over to General Manager Harris. Mr. Arthur discovered this and changed his tactics. The strike was declared off, but only temporarily. Now the strikers by tying up all the roads at once, make it impossible for the Northern to gain this advantage over the Brotherhood.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 8.—This morning the enginemen on the Manitoba's engines refused to handle Burlington cars. "Q" and Northern cars were sidetracked everywhere, and the Northern was unable to get any freight in here.

FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

A Letter From the Rev. Dr. Talmage to Miss Susan B. Anthony.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Rev. Dr. Talmage has written the following letter to Miss Susan B. Anthony, the president of the International Council for Women, which is to be held in Washington this month:

DEAR MISS ANTHONY:—Your letter received, and I am thankful for it, because it allows me the opportunity of doing two things—send you hearty greeting for all the good you have done, and are doing; and also, to say that notwithstanding anything you may have read to the contrary, I am and always have been in favor of female suffrage. I advocate in my pulpit, as well as in private, the trying the experiment, although I have not as much confidence as many of my friends in its power to eradicate the great evil of the day. The government of the United States ought either to free women from paying taxes or else give them the vote.

Wish I could accept your invitation to attend your national convention and hear the great womanly leaders, but I must be elsewhere.

May you always dwell in the light.

Yours, T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

THE BLACK MEASLES.

Frightful Havoc Created by the Disease Among the Nez Perches.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., March 8.—Advices from Ontanagon show that black measles are creating frightful havoc with the Nez Perches Indians of Chief Joseph and Moses bands on the western side of Colville reservation. Forty-two are dead from the disease, and fourteen more are at the point of death.

The medicine men treat the disease with hot steam under a blanket, and a dip in the river—a treatment attended with a fatal result in nearly every case. The whites in that section have the disease, but it yields to treatment in their cases. The Indians affected were those transferred from the Indian Territory on account of ill health there some time ago. Numbers of the tribe are fast dying out since they left Oregon and were captured by General Miles.

Will Accept a Reduction.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—The coke workers of the Connellsville region held a delegate convention at New Haven yesterday, at which it was decided to accept the reduction of 6½ per cent. in wages under protest, but to resist the reduction of 10 per cent. proposed, and demand that an equal division of all classes of labor at all works shut down be enforced.

Big Prizes.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The American Base Ball association formulated a new rule Tuesday, giving prizes of $1,000, $750 and $600 respectively, to the three leading clubs at the end of the season. In addition, each member of the pennant-winning team will be presented with a badge, on which will be inscribed name, position and record.

Very Much Murdered.

LOUISVILLE, March 8—At Yuton postoffice, near Nicholasville, Mrs. Katie Oheir was found dead with sixty-three bullet holes in her body. Amos Thomas and Frank and David Lewis are charged with the murder. No cause is assigned.

ASSASSINATED!

A Prominent Pittsburg Contractor is Mysteriously Murdered in Front of His Own Doorway.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—Peter Voelker, a well known stone contractor, was murdered in front of his own doorway, in the presence of his wife, about 11:30, last night, by a stranger, who had followed him from the city. The murderer fled, but afterwards returned to gaze upon his victim's ghastly face. He was recognized by Mrs. Voelker, but before she could give the alarm, he escaped and has not yet been apprehended.

The cause of the murder is a mystery. Mr. Voelker was an inoffensive German and quite well-to-do. He leaves a wife and three grown up children.

ALLEN O. MYERS MISSING.

The Most Prominent Defendant in the Tally Sheet Cases Wanted at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, March 8—Allen O. Myers' mysterious disapperance has emphasized the rumor that he fears the wrath of the court on account of his incendiary utterances in last Saturday's Enquirer. He was asked for immediately after court convened this morning, but the only tidings of him were contained in two or three ambiguous telegrams from the Enquirer office to the effect that he had "gone south."

Myers promised he would come at once in response to a telegram if the state would allow him to go home. A few days ago Judge Pugh directed the clerk to issue a forthwith attachment for him, and Sheriff Custer has gone "south" after him. The court adjourned at 2:30, without having done anything after dinner.

The state desires to recall Myers for the purpose of laying the foundation for additional testimony in rebuttal, as Myers was not examined on two or three conversations attributed to him by witnesses examined since he was on the stand.

CHICAGO, March 8.—In the Japanese building, 243 State street, this morning about 6 o'clock, the janitor noticed a light in the rooms occupied by the manicure establishment of Mrs. Cobb, and as this was an unusual circumstance at that hour, he forced his way into the place and found the corpse of Miss Gracie McCullen, manager of the manicure rooms, seated in a chair. She is supposed to have committed suicide from the excitement of the suicide of W. S. Hartwell.

A HUMAN HEAD

Found in the Possession of Two Toledo Dogs While Making a Meal of It.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 8.—Coroner Roulet has in his possession a human head, which was found in East Toledo by two dogs belonging to Mr. T. H. Hamilton, the bridge contractor, who lives on the river road, near the Smith Bridge company's works. The dogs apparently found the head in a hollow near the D. and M. railroad company.

They were discovered by Mr. Hamilton's hired man, who saw one of the dogs gnawing the head. It is not known whether it is a man's head or a woman's. The scalp has been torn off, and the flesh is off the lower part of the jaws. The head was evidently cut from the body by some sharp instrument. Coroner Roulet has announced that the head was placed in the garbage heap by some students of a Toledo medical college for the purpose of bleaching it.

The three military companies from this city, the Fort Wayne Rifles, the Zollinger battery and the Veteran company will attend and a magnificent time is anticipated. The encampment will continue in session one week. Captains Rawles and Eastwood speak highly of the treatment accorded them at the state capital and say that this city could have secured the encampment if a proper effort had been made to do so.

THURSDAY, MARCH 8, 1888.

THE Columbia City Post announces itself neutral in the preliminary congressional campaign and insists that all the democratic aspirants have equal rights before the convention.

THE Columbia City Post remarks: "Captain J. H. Rohan, of Fort Wayne, an old soldier and a prominent member of the G. A. R., also a Knight of Labor, has left the republican party and will in the future act with the democracy."

MR. JULIUS DEXTER, of Cincinnati, is one of the many prominent republicans who are now outspoken supporters of Cleveland and tariff reform. He is president of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad and says his conversion is due to Mr. Cleveland's honest message.

THE republicans are making a great stir over some party success in Maine municipal elections. Probably they have not heard from Elmira, N. Y, where a democratic mayor is elected by a plurality of 1,508 and the democrats elect six out of seven aldermen, and five out of six supervisors.

THE reports to the Indiana board of health show that pneumonia has caused more deaths than any other disease, 1,290 persons succumbing to its attacks. Measels stand second, with 259 deaths. This year messels have been very malignant, usually the deaths caused by it are the result of the diseases which follow its track; this year the disease itself kills the victim. Whooping cough is abroad in the land, even excelling scarlet fever, which, this year, has not done much execution. The general health of Indiana is very good, excepting measles

SECRETARY HERON, of the Indiana board of agriculture, is in daily receipt of letters from all parts of the state, stating that the past winter has been one of unusual severity on the growing wheat. This is attributed to the great amount of freezing weather, with scarcely any snow. The communications express great hope that the coming season may be favorable to the growth of corn, as observation has shown that a season succeeding a year of drought is generally characterized by heavy crops. The wheat, however, is considered to be already so much injured that even a favorable spring can not produce more than an average yield.

THE Providence Journal, the accepted organ of the New England manufacturers, thus pointedly discusses the necessity of free raw materials to benefit our productive industries:

The more we look into the desirability of free raw materials the more we shall find to support the claim. New England certainly should be a unit on this issue, for it is owing to free cotton and hides that two great branches of manufacturing are kept active, and free wool would start up the third great industry in a way that would be felt at once in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. To be able to manufacture a single line of men's wear which is now imported would double the size of the city of Providence and give employment to 50,000 people.

THE newspapers of the country are agreed that an investigation of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy strike by congress is entirely useless. The engineers on the Burlington line were classified, that is, they were paid according to the stages of efficiency attained or length of service. Their pretext for a strike is that when the riper experience and tested fidelity of the engineers entitled them to a higher standard of wages, the compady discharged them and engaged new and cheaper help in their places. To overcome this discrimination, the brotherhood men demanded a uniform scale of wages. The railroad company denies the impeachment of the engineers and refuses to accede to their demands. A congressional committe may look over these facts until dooms day, but can apply no remedy. It cannot command an arbitration, nor can it compel either the railroad company or the engineers to accept a particular set of terms.

THE Gazette is doing some very original tariff thinking. Its latest discoveries reveal to us that the excessive protective taxes do not increase the price of the protected commodities to the users and consumers. It makes this assertion in the face of the existence of monopolies, trusts and greedy combines organized and reared to exact enormous profits from their tariff protected interests. The people must pay them fixed, schedule prices and wage-workers must combine to exact even living wages from these plundering corporations. But the glowing over sights are no less surprising than the out cry that a reduction of the war tariff will injure the industries. Why, the enactment of the Mills bill would leave the average duty higher than it was under the Morrill tariff in 1863. It would leave it higher than was proposed by the republican tariff commissioners in 1882. It will add no more to the free list, with the exception of wool, than was recommended by President Arthur and Secretary Folger. Besides, this country never had a protective tariff until along in 1865. Did it not grow and prosper up to that date? Have not wages always been higher here than in the Old World alike under low tariffs and high tariffs? Are they not relatively higher to-day in the non-protected than in the protected industries? What sense is there in the cry that it will be a calamity to make sugar and clothing cheaper and to relieve salt, lumber and fibres and chemicals used in manufactures from needless taxation? The idea is preposterous on the face of it.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

Ashley Smith Held for Beating Young Noah Webber.

Ashley Smith was arraigned before Justice Ryan this morning on a charge of assaulting Noah Webber, a boy aged fifteen years. Young Webber is a son of the gentleman who keeps the feed and sale stable on Pearl street, and recently came here from Decatur.

Smith struck the lad yesterday and knocked him down. He then kicked him into the gutter and inflicted such injuries that make his recovery doubtful. The boy is unable to leave his bed and Smith was committed to jail without bail to await developments in the boy's condition.

Death of Judge Brownlee.

MARION, Ind., March 8.—Judge John Brownlee, the oldest member of the Grant county bar, died at 6 o'clock this morning, at the age of seventy-three years. Judge Brownlee was conspicuous in the early history of Indiana. He was a member of the first constitutional convention from Franklin county, and afterward served four terms in the legislature. In 1834 he was elected prosecuting attorney of the Eleventh circuit, and in 1854 was appointed judge. He had resided at Marion for forty years. He leaves a widow and four children, one of whom is Hon. Hiram Brownlee.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES writes of the project to purchase and retain inviolate the home of John G. Whittier: "No tribute which the women of New England or America can pay to Mr. Whittier will do more than express all he deserves of them and of all of us. The home of the poet of New England scenery and legend, of American freedom, of human rights and humanized religion, of peace and goodwill on earth, and hope for every soul in all worlds, will be more precious as a single shrine than in the form of a shipload of relics. I fervently hope it may be kept as inviolate as the Santa Casa."

SAM W. SMALL, of Atlanta, Ga., the well-known evangelist, is a tall, thin man, with a pale face, set off with a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles. He wears a slouch hat and a frock coat partially buttoned, and talks as if he came from the South. He resembles a student who has been poring over occult problems for a long time without sufficient outdoor exercises. His hands are small, like a woman's, with long, tapering fingers. He does not look prematurely old, his hair being black without any streaks of gray. His constitution, though, as he himself admits, received a severe shock during the years of his dissipation, from which it has never recovered. His voice is not as pleasing and musical as Sam Jones', but is rather harsh. "Old Si" has changed very much since he delighted a large number of readers with his inimitable negro dialect philosophy. He said he used to delight to go and hear Bob Ingersoll spout atheism, and would have been his disciple to this day, but he always thought of the time when he was a boy and said prayers at his mother's knee when he left the lecture room.

The Funereal Month of March.

An observant metropolitan barber says that he can tell one's physical condition by the state of the hair!

The Bible tells us that with his hair gone Sampson lost his strength. The Romans considered baldness a serious affliction and Julius Cæsar was never quite satisfied with himself because his poll was bare.

The face, however, is the open book and one can readily trace in its various expressions, lines, changes and complexion the state of the system.

The eye that is unusually bright and yet has a pallid brightness, the face upon whose cheeks nature paints a rose of singular beauty and flush, more marked in contrast with the alabaster appearance of the forehead and nose and lower part of the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funereal month of March, because it is then that consumption reaps its richest harvest. Consumption they tell us is caused by this that and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro organisms in the blood, by deficent nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the lungs.

That is all there is of it.

The cough is an evidence of a wasting. To stop it effectually, a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warners's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy. This is no new fangled notion of narcotics and poisons, but an old-fashioned preparation of balsams, roots and herbs, such as was used by our ancestors many years ago, the formula of which has been secured exclusively by the present manufacturers at great trouble and expense. It is not a mere cold dryer. It is a system-searcher and upbuilder and a consumption expellant. Where others fail, it wins, because it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system.

J. W. Hensaw, of Greensboro, Pa., on January 15, 1888, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy than he had for years from the best state physicians."

If you have a cough, night sweats, "positive assurance in your own mind that you, oh—you, have no consumption," and yet lose flesh, appetite, courage, as your lungs waste away, you may know that soon the funereal month of March will claim you, unless promptly and faithfully you use the article named. If other remedies have failed try this one thoroughly. If others are offered, insist the more on trying this unequaled preparation.

Some persons are prone to consumption and they should never allow the disease to become seated.

Working In a Mustard-Mill.

I am employed in a mustard-mill where we daily grind hundreds of bushels of the strongest mustard seed, then sifting it and preparing it for the trade. We also grind pepper and spices, occasionally preparing cayenne pepper. I work eight to ten hours a day in the fine dust that floats in the atmosphere of the room you couldn't hardly come inside without sneezing for hours after. Yet I am fat, hearty, and do not know what sickness is. I make good wages and have worked many years at it, but there is one drawback. Wherever the creases in the skin made by the joints, etc., are the mustard and pepper get in, the first acting the same as a mustard-plaster and the pepper irritating until sometimes the inflammation and sores are awful.—Philadelphia News.

THE great-hearted philanthropy of the New England railroad manager was exemplified the other day when a constant patron of a local Boston road presented a big petition from other constant patrons, asking that the cars be better lighted, for, as they were, it was next to impossible to read in them. "Why do you want to read in them?" asked the manager. "Don't you know it hurts your eyes to read in the cars? It is one of the worst habits you could get into. Don't do it; break yourself of it. I shan't put in better lamps, for if I did more people would read in the cars and there'd be more eye diseases. Don't read in the cars. They weren't made to read in?"

Opinion of a Leading Editor.

Almost all the diseases that afflict us from infancy to old age have their origin in a disordered liver. A really good liver medicine is the most important in the whole range of pharmacy. We believe Simmons Liver Regulator to be the best among them all. We pin our faith upon the Regulator, and if we could persuade every reader who is in ill health to buy it, we would willingly vouch for the benefit each would receive.—Ed. Cincinnati Gazette.

That's So

Relief is certain for the despondent feelings of the dyspeptic, the constipated habit of the sedentary, the headaches of the nervous and bilious, by the simple use of Simmons Liver Regulator,—easy to take, not nauseating or disgusting, not more bitter than a glass of beer and far more grateful. It is no intoxicating beverage, but it tones up the system, settles the stomach, assists digestion, regulates the bowels, and stimulates the Liver. Take it once and and you will discard all other medicines.

"I have used many remedies for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Debility, but never have found anything to benefit me to the extent that Simmons Liver Regulator has. I would advise all who are similarly affected to give it a trial as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve."—P. M. JANNEY, Minneapolis, Minn.

The certainty with which this remedy acts has astonished the Medical Profession and secured for itself unbounded praise. Its virtues consist in being so gentle a cathartic, tonic and alterative, that in its operation it does not interrupt the usual duties of life, but acts so naturally that the system is not upset or afterwards constipated. It attacks all bilious disorders and sluggishness of the Liver; is harmless, and can be taken at any time without fear of injury.

"I have been a user of Simmons Liver Regulator for years, having made it my only family medicine. It is a sure, good and reliable medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it."—Rev. JAS. M. ROLLINS, Pastor M. E. Church, Fairfield, Va.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

REVOLUTION IN JAPAN.

The Liberalism of That Country Undergoing a Change—Despotic Methods.

Japan's misfit liberalism, hastily defined twenty years ago, is cracking at the seams, and shows the same old despotism that ruled without any profession of regard for public opinion up to the revolution of 1838. In that year the Liberal leaders succeeded in demolishing the whole feudal system, and bodily transferred Japan from eastern to western political methods. As often happens, these very leaders, Liberals to gain power, became Conservatives when once they had grasped it. Before the brakes could be put on, progress had wrung from the mikado's ministers the promise that a parliament should be convened in 1890. That year is not far off, but the parliament is distant.

The ministers of the mikado have, after the Oriental manner, summarily postponed reform by arresting many reformers, and by "purifying" the army in the most approved fashion. The army was supposed to be infected with liberalism, and many of those who were suspected before the coup d'etat of December are now dead. The thunderbolt fell on Dec. 27. An imperial rescript dated two days before "proclaimed" all the secret societies and assemblies and open air meetings. The police were also authorized to arrest and banish all "suspected" persons found within eight miles of the palace. Of course, all courtiers and all officials who dissented from the reactionary policy of Premier Ito were "suspected." In a word, Japan was suddenly placed under martial law.

So decided a step necessarily needed a pretext, and a conspiracy to assassinate Ito was officially discovered. Ito, who models himself on Bismarck, is a believer in the blood and iron policy, with this difference, that he has no particular aversion to shedding blood on the scaffold, a form of bloodthirstiness with which the great chancellor cannot truthfully be accused. Ito, since he got home from his tour of Europe, has only bided his time to head off the parliamentary movement, and now believes he has accomplished his object. His methods are those peculiar to despotisms. The army is increased and liberally paid; the laboring masses are kept busily employed on unnecessary railroads and expensive public works, and the school appropriations are cut down. All this is characteristically "absolute."—Boston Transcript.

Smooth Worn Silver Coin.

A short time since Deputy Postmaster W. S. Leake, when paying money into another federal office in this city, was informed that a silver coin that had become smooth from usage could not be accepted, and was refused. As such coin had been received at the postoffice for stamps, etc., in the transaction of business, the question became an interesting one, and believing it could not be rejected as mutilated coin, a half dollar which had been refused acceptance was forwarded to the secretary of the treasury for his decision, and the following reply has just been received by Postmaster Stephens:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2, 1888.

SIR—I return herewith, as requested, the silver half dollar inclosed in your letter of the 24th ult., with the information that this coin has been examined by experts in the office of the treasurer of the United States, and would be accepted if presented at that office for deposit or redemption, as there is no law or regulation under which it could be declined, it being simply worn smooth by natural abrasion.

Under department's regulations of Aug. 1, 1887, copy inclosed, mutilated silver coins are not redeemed, but "reduction by natural abrasion is not considered mutilation." Respectfully yours,

HUGH S. THOMPSON, Assistant Secretary.

A Tall Musical Story.

A young lady who is a very fine vocalist was telling me an incident of an annoying experience with a tuneful breastpin. Her attention was first directed to the music in her ornament on an occasion when she was particularly anxious to show the sweetness of her voice. As she sang she became conscious of a shrill, harsh and metallic sound, like a loose wire of a piano. She stopped in the middle of the song and asked if there was not something wrong.

It was readily seen that the piano was all right, and the only inference left was that the discordant noise was her own. She was deeply mortified, and it was not till some time afterward, and after several repetitions of her former experience, that she discovered the source of the sound—a loose ornament of a breastpin which she wore close to her throat. The vibrations of her vocal chords were transmitted in some way to this pin, thus setting the ornament in motion, which grated against its setting and created a most disagreeable noise.—Louisville Post.

Who Stopped the Train?

When a railroad train was about five miles out of Nashville the other day it was stopped and the engineer told that the conductor was not on board. The train was backed up and the wrathful conductor was taken on. A theatrical company, carrying a goat among its properties, was on board. Soon after leaving Nashville the second time the property man came back and asked who pulled the bell cord. No one knew. "The goat did it," said the property man, in a hoarse whisper. He then explained that the goat had climbed on top of a pile of trunks in the baggage car and discovered a small piece of cotton hanging to the bell cord. The animal at once began biting at the cotton, and by that means gave a pull on the bell cord, which had signaled the engineer to go ahead.—Chicago Herald.

Railroad Building Out West.

The western people apparently think no more of throwing down a railroad, if they want to go anywhere, than a conservative easterner does of taking an unaccustomed walk across country, and the railroad constructors and managers are a little amused at the eastern slowness and want of facility in construction and management. One hears that the east is antiquated, and does not know anything about railroad building. Shovels, carts and wheelbarrows are of a past age; the big wheel scraper does the business. It is a common remark that a contractor accustomed to eastern work is not desired on a western job.—Charles Dudley Warner in Harper's Magazine.

The French Dog Corps.

The dog corps in the French army is being carefully trained at Belfort. Large dogs are chosen. Every day they are shown soldiers in German uniforms and taught to fly at them on sight.—New York Sun.

How to Get Up Speed.

The only shorthand writer who ever yet attained a speed of 300 words a minute got his skill by practicing assiduously on his wife's conversation.—Exchange.

This Is What They Did.

When the issues of the twenty years from 1856 to 1876 were substantially settled the Republican party began to lose its vigor, because it seemed incapable of setting its face to the future and dealing with new questions. It lingered over the past and tried to keep up the sectional division when the people began to wish for its disappearance. It permitted grave abuses to make their way into the public service, and seemed to lack the vigor to grapple with them. The revenue system, which had been necessitated by the war and the public debt, had fostered powerful monopolies and built up special interests at the expense of the people, and these were concerned for their own perpetuation. They were permitted, in a great measure, to control the action of the party. Their money was at its service so long as their protection was guaranteed. Their rich representatives made their way into the party councils and obtained high places in legislation and administration. They dictated party declarations and had a dominating influence upon party action.—New York Times.

A Mighty Slander Platform.

The friends of Gen. Harrison—who, by the way, was never anything more than a colonel, and not a very gory one at that—out in Indiana, are making a great effort to secure a delegation to the Republican national convention favorable to his nomination for the presidency. This prompts us to remind them that an election was held in the Empire state a few months ago that was supposed to have put to rest for good and all the boomlets of Grant and Lincoln, the respective sons of their respective honored fathers.

Gen. Harrison is a very worthy but mediocre statesman, whose principal recommendation, so far as we can make out, is not that "he is the son of his father," but that "he is the grandson of his grandfather, 'Old Tippecanoe and Tyler too.'"

And that is a mighty slender platform to run upon, and don't you forget it, oh, men of Indiana!—New York Sun.

The New Postmaster General.

President Cleveland is to be congratulated in having put a Jacksonian Democrat at the head of the postoffice department. The new postmaster general is such, and he has proceeded to work in a very business like way, and after a fashion which should commend him to the hearty good will of all Democrats.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Boomerang Boom.

With Foraker forging to the front in Ohio, Uncle John Sherman's baby blizzard boom, which he fondly hoped would sweep over Ohio, now that Blaine is out of the way, appears to have exhausted all its energies in leveling some of his own fences.—New York Evening World.

The Opportunity May Come.

By all means let the Ohio men continue to shout for John Sherman. The Democrats who still bear in mind the frauds which put Rutherford B. Hayes into the White House, will welcome at the polls such an opportunity to settle up with the Ohio senator.—New York Sun.

A Thing of the Past.

It did not seem probable a few years ago, but it is now almost an accomplished fact, that the Republican officeholder has ceased to be a reality, and has become in the city of New York merely a reminiscence of a past and unregretted period of politics.—New York Sun.

Ever Since He Took Tilden's Seat.

R. B. Hayes has come out with an expression of deep commiseration for American sheep, in case the duty on wool is removed. It will not surprise the country to know that Hayes has been feeling sheepish for some time.—Alta California.

A Gentle Reminder.

Those persons who think that Blaine will no longer try for the presidency are earnestly asking: "Who is Blaine's heir?" It does not appear to have occurred to them that there may be a pocket in Blaine's political shroud.—Chicago News.

No Doubt About This.

If the convention were to nominate me I would not accept," says Gen. Sheridan. Oh, yes, you would, general, you'd accept p. d. q. Good American citizens like you are not throwing away presidential nominations.—Kansas City Times.

A Slap at Ingalls.

Ingalls' reading of Washington's farewell address was rather impatiently listened to by the members of the senate. Probably a good many of them were sorry that it wasn't Ingalls' farewell address.—Chicago Herald.

And It Will not Either.

Republican organs are claiming that their party is rich in presidential timber, but a little thing like this doesn't prevent the party from selecting a man weak enough to insure his defeat.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Question of Time Only.

What are we to do about all those rebel flags that Republican secretaries of war, from Stanton down, have returned to the ex-rebel states? Ought not the Republican party to be abolished?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A True Statement of Affairs.

The Democratic party is much stronger everywhere than it was in 1884, and is threatened by none of the dissensions which so seriously handicapped it in New York that year.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Plenty of Land on Hand.

The Democratic party was never so full of the courage of its convictions; never so ready to fight for them; never so sure that to fight is to win as it is now.—St. Louis Republican.

Two great enemies—Hood's Sarsaparilla and impure blood. The latter is utterly defeated by the peculiar medicine.

PRINCE BISMARCK is the possessor of forty-nine decorations of distinction aside from the distinction he bears of being able to drink more brandy during the delivery of a speech without showing the effects thereof than any other statesman in Europe.

Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in the spring of the year, to purify the blood, invigorate the system, excite the liver to action, and restore healthy tone and vigor to the whole physical mechanism. Remember that quality, not quantity, constitutes the value of medicine.

The Back Log in the Fire.

I have seen a good many ancient customs and opinions attacked in my time, but never until yesterday have I heard questioned the wisdom of keeping a "back log" in a wood fire. People who quarrel about every other detail in the original placing and subsequent poking of the sticks are united on the back log. The custom, moreover, has come down to us from our forefathers, who certainly had an experience in the matter of wood fires which their posterity do not enjoy; then, too, before the innovator lays a desecrating hand upon the back log, he ought to consider the memories and associations which have gathered about it. One should hesitate to knock the bottom, as it were, out of Mr. Warner's charming studies on this subject. What would be the feelings of that gifted writer if he were told that a back log, so far from being the main-stay and fountain-head, so to say, of the fire, is a useless, and in fact mischievous, encumbrance! This, however was the assertion which I heard yesterday from a lady of my acquaintance in Boston, as we sat in her drawing-room before a large and roaring fire. There was no back log, and the sticks were piled on a system of diagonal construction. "The great object," said my fair but heretical hostess, "is to have a network of crevices so that there shall be a draught of air throughout the fire. The back log simply takes up room." Perhaps, after all, the back log was chiefly intended as a storehouse of fire in the day before matches were invented. However, I hasten to say that I have no intention of dogmatizing upon a subject which has sundered so many friendships as has that which regards the proper construction and management of a wood fire.—Boston Post.

Syrup of Figs.

This pleasant California liquid fruit remedy may be had of Theime and Gross, druggists, large bottles at fifty cents or one dollar. A BARBER in London has recently performed a rather clever feat. The shop was full of customers, and one of them was undergoing the operation of shaving, when it was noticed that the barber had his eyes closed, though he still kept passing the razor over the face of his visitor. After some time, and when the operation was finished, what was the surprise of those in the shop to hear the barber exclaim: "O no, not yet," at the same time opening his eyes. It then became evident that he was fast asleep, and had shaved the man while in that condition.

To Assist Nature

In restoring diseased or wasted tissue is all that any medicine can do. In pulmonary affections, such as Colds, Bronchitis, and Consumption, the mucous membrane first becomes inflamed, then accumulations form in the air-cells of the lungs, followed by tubercles, and, finally, destruction of the tissue. It is plain, therefore, that, until the hacking cough is relieved, the bronchial tubes can have no opportunity to heal. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

the inflamed membrane, arrests the wasting process, and leaves no injurious results. This is why it is more highly esteemed than any other pulmonary specific.

L. D. Bixby, of Bartonsville, Vt., writes: "Four years ago I took a severe cold, which was followed by a terrible cough. I was very sick, and confined to my bed about four months. My physician finally said I was in consumption, and that he could not help me. One of my neighbors advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and before I had taken half a bottle was able to go out. By the time I had finished the bottle I was well, and have remained so ever since."

Alonzo P. Daggett, of Smyrna Mills, Me., writes: "Six years ago, I was a traveling salesman, and at that time was suffering with

Lung Trouble.

For months I was unable to rest nights. I could seldom lie down, had frequent choking spells, and was often compelled to seek the open air for relief. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which helped me. Its continued use has entirely cured me, and, I believe, saved my life."

The Pennsylvania Railroad company officially denies the rumors to the effect that the company had begun pro-rating with far western roads on cut rates on low-class eastbound freight. So far as the company is informed no other member of the Trunk Line association has violated its agreement, though it was admitted that a renewal of this action by other eastern roads was likely at any time.

The receipts at postoffices at Indianapolis, Evansville, Fort Wayne and Terre Haute, which have public buildings, and at Richmond, South Bend and Lafayette, where buildings are leased, show that the per cent of expenses to gross receipts is as follows at each place named: Indianapolis, 44; Evansville, 48; Fort Wayne, 51; Terre Haute, 55; Richmond, 48; South Bend, 56; Lafayette, 54.

A story comes from Port Clinton, O., that Tascott, the alleged murderer of Amos J. Snell, of Chicago, has been living in that vicinity with some fishermen, and that he recently make his escape on the ice bridge to Canada. The description furnished of the Chicago murderer corresponds precisely with that furnished of the fugitive by the Lake Shore detectives at Sandusky, and surrounding cities have been notified.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Two Accidents Mixed With Personal Items and Gossip Constitute the News of the Day.

There are lots of idle men now.

The trains were all on time to-day.

The shops were very quiet this morning.

The railroads are devoid of news again.

This was pay day for the discharged Pittsburg employes.

The Nickel Plate came to the front with a wreck yesterday.

The electric lights were being repaired at the depots this morning.

Conductor Nolf, of the Pittsburg, is recovering from his recent illness.

Cyrus Birget, a machinist in the Bass works, has been on the sick list for the last week.

The dummy suicide of Peter Blank created a sensation in the Bass works yesterday.

The discharged employes of the Pittsburg shops received their pay to-day at the freight office.

John Kelley, of the Pittsburg boiler shops, has returned to duty after a sickness of a few weeks.

J. B. Mitchell, superintendent of the bridge building department of the Wabash, was in the city last evening.

Officer Patrick Ryan is performing the duties of Officer Limecooley at the depots during the latter's sickness.

A large number of the Bass moulders went fishing to-day and some shouldered their guns and went in quest of game.

The nice weather brings out the tramps and their familiar figures are seen around the railroads in large numbers.

Thomas Toomey, an employe of the Bass works, who has been off duty for several days, returned to work again yesterday.

Jacob Luley, an apprentice boy in the Bass works, has been off duty for a week on account of a severe case of rheumatism.

The clerks in the Pittsburg works have got through with their rush of work and find time to take a little breathing spell now.

The Bass works are testing a high speed engine which is to be sent to Columbia City to furnish the motive power for their electric lights.

John Reiter, a moulder in the Bass works, is now the owner of a valuable hunting dog. He is out testing the talents of his new canine to-day.

The Nickel Plate company is feeling the C., B. and Q. strike and dismissals in all departments are in progress. Six men were suspended here last evening.

Jacob J. Stier and Frank Finke, the foremen in the Bass moulding rooms, and a large number of their men attended the funeral of Roman Ehinger this morning.

The new barn of the Bass foundry is almost completed. It is a commodious and handsome structure and is quite an addition to the large buildings of that mammoth establishment.

There is a feeling among the business men that the Pittsburg officials are preparing for a strike on their line, on account of the close connection of their interests with those of the C., B. and Q.

Joe Dwenger, of the Bass machine shops, cut his wrist yesterday in a very severe manner while working in the shops. The injury was a very painful one and will lay him up for a week or more.

The records show that the Pennsylvania fast trains have for thirty days past been arriving nearer on schedule time than in any like period in the last four years, demonstrating that it is perfectly practical to make the present schedule time between New York and western cities.

Wilson Eddy, one of the best known master mechanics in the country, and wife, last week celebrated their golden wedding at their home in Springfield, Mass. For forty years he has has been master mechanic of the Boston and Albany road, and many of the most useful improvements to locomotives made in the last twenty-five years were of his invention.

The receipts of the Pittsburg office at this place for passenger travel show an increase of $2,400 for the month of February over the corresponding month of last year. This increase of receipts at this city has been the case for the last several months and shows that the business and earnings of the road has been better during the last year than it has been for several years.

All the moulding rooms of the Bass foundry and machine works were closed down to-day, and their several hundred employes enjoyed a holiday. Things looked very deserted this morning when our reporter passed through the works. The four large moulding rooms, where men, working as thick as bees, are always seen, presented a scene of idleness and quiet that was in strange contrast with the sight that is presented there every day.

Last evening while Charles W. Benoy, a machinist in the Bass works, was engaged in working at the shop, he had occasion to go to the other end of the large machine room after some article he needed. In the dim light he failed to notice a pit or opening in the floor, which for some reason had been left uncovered, and fell into it. The fall bruised him quite badly about the body and he was compelled to quit work and go home. His injuries will probably confine him to his home for several days.

WHAT IT MEANS.

The Dismissal of the Employes from the Pittsburg Shops—The Probabilities of Their Resumption.

The city of Fort Wayne, with its large number of manufacturing establishments, employing as they do thousands of working men, and permeating with their influence every branch of trade and commerce in the city, passed through the last year and entered the new one without labor troubles of any kind. It seemed as if the goddess of prosperity had come to us to stay, and the future was bright and full of promise.

Coming, at such a time, as it did, the wholesale discharge of the employes in the Pittsburg shops was a severe blow. But very few stop to think what such a thing really means. It threw out of employment in one day, by a single stroke of the official ax, 224 employes of that establishment. It means not only so many idle men, but it means after their present earnings are spent, that want will stare almost that number of families of our city in the face. It means that the wages of these men, which amounted, on a fair average, to over $11,200 a month, will no longer be put into circulation when the monthly pay day of the Pennsylvania company comes around.

It means more than this. The Pittsburg shops of this city have certain kinds of work done and obtain material from other establishments in the city. The Bass foundry and machine works does castings for them which amount to $1,500 every day and for the other shops of the Pennsylvania railroad they do as much more, so that the company probably pay into the treasury of the Bass works $3,000 every day.

The reduction of the amount of labor done in the various shops of the Pittsburg company then means the use of only half the amount of castings which, for the past year, they have been getting at the Bass works. This would as soon as the present contracts expire, reduce the number of men at their mammoth establishment, and, if the present system of labor saving is persisted in by the Pennsylvania company, a number of the employes of the Bass foundry moulding rooms would necessarily have to be thrown out of employment.

With such a condition of things staring the city in the face, the following from an intelligent and well posted employe of the Pennsylvania company in this city, as he said it to a SENTINEL reporter last evening, will come as a pleasant and encouraging piece of intelligence, whether it is well founded or not.

"I do not believe this condition of things will last long," said he. "For the year past the company has been working overtime. There has been a demand for locomotives and cars all over the country and it seemed as if our works could not manufacture them fast enough. The erecting department of the locomotive works has been running a night force for months and there has been just as great a push in the car shops and some of the other departments of the works.

"It cannot be that the Pennsylvania and the other roads of the country are supplied with all the cars and locomotives they want, because I believe to do this that a year's busy, pushing work would be necessary and this has been the opinion of some of the best posted locomotive and car builders in the country. Hence, I think the demand for work still exists in the railroad shops here and other parts of the country.

"This sudden stroke of economy on the part of the Pennsylvania comes from some other cause. I do not know what it is, because I am not in the secrets of the company's high officials, but I think you intimated it in THE SENTINEL the other evening, when you said that it grew out of the embargo that had been placed on the transfer of or reception of freight from the Burlington road. I think when the difficulty is settled the shops will resume their old time activity and work will be pushed as rapidly as ever."

And in support of the views of this gentleman, the following dispatch, showing the earnings of the Pennsylvania company during the last year, will be read with interest:

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—The annual report of the Pennsylvania railroad company was made public yesterday. In presenting this report President Roberts says: The statements show a large increase in the gross revenues of the company. After deducting therefrom the operating expenses and rentals of leased roads, and the losses on the united railroads of New Jersey Division, there remains a balance of $10,213,295 86, the result being a net income for the year of $7,793,738 66, as compared with $6,920,898 90 for 1886.

After making the proper debits and credits to credit to profit and loss, the amount carried to the credit of that account for the year was $1,983,599.17, making the total amount now standing to the credit of profit and loss $17,608,947.52. The increase in the gross revenues of your entire system, and especially of the lines west of Pittsburg, during the summer months, arising from the usual prosperity of the manufacturing industries of the country, seems to warrant the board in declaring a dividend of 3 per cent. in November, making for the year a total dividend of 5½ per cent., as against 5 per cent. in 1886.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—There was no more fruitful topic of discussion in financial and commercial circles yesterday than the annual report of the Pennsylvania railroad company. The facts and figures of the statement received attention that is rarely bestowed upon such a publication. It is not surprising, however, that the affairs of a corporation that has an annual earning capacity of over $100,000,000, and spends over $6,000,000 a year for construction, equipment and real estate alone in two states, should excite comment. It was generally regarded as a remarkable fact that the company is still able to show vast increases in receipts in view of the decreased profits on freight transportation.

The day Sir Isaac Newton discovered the attraction of gravitation, he sat under a tree and caught a severe cold. Alas! in those unenlightened days there was no Dr. Bull and no Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup either.

WILL IT TAKE PLACE?

The Sullivan Mitchell Fight Announced to Take Place To-morrow.

NEW YORK, March 8.—According to cable reports the prospects of a meeting between John L. Sullivan and Charles Mitchell grow better day by day, and at present it seems a certainty that they will battle with their fists. The fight is set down for March 9th, which will be to-morrow. It will probably be decided in France, near Rouen, and possibly on the same spot where Smith and Greenfield fought. Sullivan is said to be in fine fettle, and Mitchell is as fit as he can be.

If this is so and both men are in splendid fix, it will be a case of "eclipse first and the others nowhere." Sullivan's superior height, weight, length of reach and skill will land him an easy winner, and Mitchell will be a sorry "mug" when the fight ends. It is nonsense to suppose that he will have the best of the encounter because it is according to ring rules.

Many people forget that those rules allow clinching, which is prevented by the Queensberry code, and that Sullivan can get Mitchell's head in chancery, hold him up and pound his face to a jelly. This he can do, and will do, if the chance offers, and, barring accident, partiality of the referee or "gouging," John will whip Charley to a stand-still in short order.

LONDON, March 8.—Charlie Mitchell and his friends left here this morning for France, where it is supposed the fight between Mitchell and Sullivan will take place.

THE LABOR TICKET.

The Hoosiers Have One in the Field Quite Early.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8.—The state union labor party in convention yesterday nominated the following state ticket.

For Governor—Gen. J. B. Milroy, of Carroll county.

For Lieutenant Governor—J. F White, of Marion.

For Secretary of State—A. C. Geyer, of St. Joseph.

For Auditor—John P. Hannegan, of Tippecanoe.

For Treasurer—D. F. Doll, of Bartholomew.

For Clerk of the Supreme Court—J. O. Smith, of White.

Delegates to the National Convention—J. H. Allen, of Vigo, and Thomas Sharp, of Marion.

No nominations were made for attorney general or supreme court reporter. The central committee was empowered to fill both places. The platform reaffirms the Cincinnati platform of Feb. 22, 1887, opposes prison contracts, favors secret ballot, non-political management of benevolent institutions, the service-pension law, the furnishing of school books by the state, all the best known appliances in factories for the protection of employes, and the repeal of all laws allowing voting of taxes on the people for the building of railroads.

The President and Public Buildings.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—It is hinted by those who have visited the president of late that he will sign the bills now passed by congress making appropriations for federal buildings in the small cities, which bills he vetoed to the last congress. So there may be some hope for such places as Lafayette, Logansport, Richmond, etc., if the bills can be got through the house, where they now repose.

A DEAD RULER.

The Death of Emperor William, of Germany, at Berlin This Afternoon.

BERLIN, March 8.—The following bulletin was issued at 10:40 this morning:

"The emperor had a very restless night and is very weak this morning.

[Signed.] VON LAUER."

Doctors Leuthold and Tiemann remained with the emperor throughout the night. The grand duke and dutchess of Baden and the crown prince of Sweden arrived this morning in a special train.

RESUCCESSION.

An imperial decree, which was signed on November 17, was promulgated today. It provides for the representation of the emperor and king, by Prince William, in the discharge of current government business.

GRADUALLY SINKING.

LONDON, March 8.—A Berlin dispatch timed 2 p. m. says: The emperor is weakening. The doctors have faint hopes of his recovery.

BERLIN, March 8, 4 p. m.—The emperor is not able to recognise even the empress and is gradually sinking.

An immense, but silent, crowd is standing near the palace, notwithstanding the fact that a cold rain is falling. The palace is guarded by a force of cavalry. Business in the town is virtually suspended and the theatres are closed.

REPORTED DEAD.

LONDON, March 8.—A dispatch from Berlin states that the emperor died this afternoon.

STILL ALIVE.

BERLIN, March 8, 2:30 p. m.—According to semi-official authority the emperor at 1 o'clock, while more quiet, had not perceptibly gained in strength. Dr. Koegel, the court chaplain, was with the emperor between 12 and 1 o'clock this afternoon. The Prince and Princess William have been at the palace since 8 o'clock this morning. Prince Bismarck visited the place at noon and had a long conference with Prince William. All the members of the imperial family in Berlin called during the morning.

TALKING TO THE EMPEROR.

4:50 p. m.—Shortly before 2 o'clock the empress and grand-dochess of Baden were with the emperor.

At 2 o'clock Prince Bismarck went to the bedside and the emperor spoke to him. Prince Bismarck left the palace at 2:45 p. m.

The crown prince of Sweden arrived in Berlin at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THE FAMILY GATHERING.

BERLIN, March 8.—At noon all members of the imperial family except the crown prince and princess, were in the rooms adjoining that occupied by the emperor.

At 12:25 the chaplain gave the last sacrament to the emperor.

The emperor was occasionally delirious before noon. Prince Bismarck visited the reichstag at 2.30.

THE EMPEROR DEAD.

6:45 p. m.—The emperor is dead.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

William I. (Wilhelm Friedrich Ludwig), king of Prussia and emperor of Germany, born March 22, 1797. He is a son of Frederick William III. and Queen Louise. After the accession of his childless brother, Frederick William IV., in 1840, he became known as heir apparent. The revolutionary excitement of 1848 compelled him to withdraw to England for a short time. In command of the Prussian forces sent to Baden in 1849, he put down the republican insurrection there in a few weeks. His brother becoming ill in 1857, he acted in his stead, and in October, 1858, was formally installed as regent; and he succeeded him as king on Jan. 2, 1861. With the assistance of Von Roon he reorganized the army, and in 1862 he placed Bismarck at the head of the cabinet as minister of foreign affairs. After procuring in 1864 the cooperation of Austria in the Schleswig-Holstein war, he achieved a great victory for Prussia, and the convention of Gastein (Aug. 14, 1865) assigned Schleswig temporarily to him, and Lauenburg permanently. His confidence in Bismarck, Von Roon, and Moltke was fully confirmed by the rapid and brilliant success of the war of 1866 in conjunction with Italy against Austria in which he participated, and which extinguished Austria as a German power, and placed him at the head of the new North German confederation, with Schleswig-Holstein, Hanover, Hesse Cassel, Nassau, and Frankfort added to his Prussian dominions. The candidature of Prince Leopold, of Hohenzollern for the Spanish throne, and the king's refusal to hold further interviews with the French embassador, Count Benedetti, who had repeatedly importuned him a Ems, (July, 1870), became the pretext for the French declaration of war against Prussia. The South German states at once joined the North German confederation against France, under the lead of Prussia, and the war was a series of prodigious victories. William received at Sedan (Sept. 2) the surrender of Napoleon III. On Oct. 5 he fixed his headquarters in the palace of Versailles, and here, on Jan. 18, 1871, he was proclaimed emperor of Germany, and on Feb. 26 signed the preliminaries of peace. On March 21 he opened the first reichstag of the new empire. By his wife, the empress Augusta, he has one son, the crown prince (Frederick William Nicholas Charles), and one daughter, the grand duchess Louise of Baden.

LONDON, March 8.—The drawing room reception which was to have been held to-morrow by the queen, has been postponed on account of the death of Emperor William.

The Crown Prince.

SAN REMO, March 8.—The crown prince will leave here Saturday morning.

Prince Bismarck has telegraphed to Dr. Mackenzie inquiring whether the crown prince could not come to Berlin, instead of going to Wiesbaden as proposed.

SAN REMO, March 8.—The crown princes' condition continues to improve.

LONDON, March 8.—The British Medical Journal has a dispatch from San Remo to-day, stating that the crown prince's larynx is a little more swollen.

VERY SWEET.

The House Committee of Congress Commences an Investigation of the Sugar Trust Case.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The house committee on manufactories to-day began an investigation of the trusts. The sugar trust was the one selected to be the first investigated. John E. Parsons was the first witness. He is a lawyer of New York City, who had drawn up a deed of trust and explained its features.

MANAGER BALDWIN.

He Gives the Reasons for Closing the Shops of the Pennsylvania Company.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—The report that the Fort Wayne railroad shopmen were discharged because of fears of a strike is pronounced false by Manager Baldwin. "If our men want to strike," said he, "we should just tell them to go ahead. But in this case, we had no reason to expect one. We have closed down for good business reasons. Like every other railroad in the country, our business is falling off.

West of Pittsburg to-day we have about 2,000 gondola cars side tracked and idle. On account of the iron troubles there are no shipments of ore here, and the lakes being frozen there is no coal going west. We recognise that there is a storm ahead, for it is coming just as sure as you live, and we are furling our sails to meet it. We do not want to be caught in a gale with top-sails set. That is the sole explanation of our closing the shops. Everything else is buncombe."

PLAYED WILLIAM TELL.

Two Boys Reproduce the Ancient Drama, With Probably Fatal Results.

BOSTON, March 8.—The old story of William Tell, his son, and the apple, has a sequel that threatens to end tragically. The actors are Sumner Holland, thirteen years of age, of Somerville, the son of a prominent business man of this city, and his cousin of eleven years, also named Holland. The elder boy had a pistol of small calibre and some cartridges. He extracted, or thought he did, the bullets from some of the cartridges.

A few days ago the boys undertook to reproduce the ancient Swiss drama. Sumner took the part of William Tell, and the younger boy that of the son, with the apple. The pistol they thought would much better answer the purpose than a bow and arrow. When the smaller lad had taken position, he was fortunately stricken with sudden misgivings. He turned his head to one side with the exclamation: "Suppose there should be something in it?" just as his cousin fired. The movement saved the little fellow from instant death, for a bullet struck him on the right side of the neck. The wound was serious and the boy's condition became steadily worse until his life is despaired of.

She Asked For Bread and Got a Bullet.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., March 8.—A week or so ago George Millikin left his home and family to live with a woman named Hester Dewease, on a house boat on the Saline river. On Monday Mrs. Millikin went to the boat to ask her husband for some money to buy food for her children. Millikin met her outside of the boat, and while he was talking with her a bullet came crashing through the window of the boat, striking Mrs. Millikin and killing her instantly. The shot had been fired by the Dewease woman, and both she and Millikin are now under arrest.

THE "Q" STRIKE!

The Burlington Road Petitions the Court to Compel the Wabash to Handle Their Freight.

CHICAGO, March 8.—An application for a restraining order was made before Judge Gresham this morning, by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, to enjoin the receiver of the Wabash from refusing to handle traffic over the plaintiff's road, as required by law, and also to enjoin Arthur from ordering the members of the Brotherhood to refuse to handle engines for such purpose. Hearing is set for to-morrow afternoon.

The suspension of the intended strike on the Burlington & Northern road, says the Chicago Tribune, which was to have been inaugurated Monday at 7 p.m., was a stroke of far sighted policy. When the grievance committee in session Monday learned that there was cause for grievance on the Northern they found out also that there was cause for grievance on a number of other roads. To declare a strike on the Northern alone, a road which employs less than 125 engineers, both Mr. Arthur and the grievance committee saw plainly would accomplish little good. General Manager Harris had been expecting something of the sort and was prepared. Indeed, men were all ready to take the places of Brotherhood strikers the moment the latter stepped off their engines. President Perkins and General Manager Stone had the engines ready to turn over to General Manager Harris. Mr. Arthur discovered this and changed his tactics. The strike was declared off, but only temporarily. Now the strikers by tying up all the roads at once, make it impossible for the Northern to gain this advantage over the Brotherhood.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 8.—This morning the engineemen on the Manitoba's engines refused to handle Burlington cars. "Q" and Northern cars were sidetracked everywhere, and the Northern was unable to get any freight in here.

FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

A Letter From the Rev. Dr. Talmage to Miss Susan B. Anthony.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Rev. Dr. Talmage has written the following letter to Miss Susan B. Anthony, the president of the International Council for Women, which is to be held in Washington this month:

DEAR MISS ANTHONY:—Your letter received, and I am thankful for it, because it allows me the opportunity of doing two things—send you hearty greeting for all the good you have done, and are doing; and also, to say that notwithstanding anything you may have read to the contrary, I am and always have been in favor of female suffrage. I advocate in my pulpit, as well as in private, the trying the experiment, although I have not as much confidence as many of my friends in its power to eradicate the great evil of the day. The government of the United States ought either to free women from paying taxes or else give them the vote.

Wish I could accept your invitation to attend your national convention and hear the great womanly leaders, but I must be elsewhere.

May you always dwell in the light.

YOURS, T. DE WITT TALMAGE.

THE BLACK MEASLES.

Frightful Havoc Created by the Disease Among the Nez Perches.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., March 8.—Advices from Outanagon show that black measles are creating frightful havoc with the Nez Perches Indians of Chief Joseph and Moses bands on the western side of Colville reservation. Forty-two are dead from the disease, and fourteen more are at the point of death.

The medicine men treat the disease with hot steam under a blanket, and a dip in the river—a treatment attended with a fatal result in nearly every case. The whites in that section have the disease, but it yields to treatment in their cases. The Indians affected were those transferred from the Indian Territory on account of ill health there some time ago. Numbers of the tribe are fast dying out since they left Oregon and were captured by General Miles.

Will Accept a Reduction.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—The coke workers of the Connellsville region held a delegate convention at New Haven yesterday, at which it was decided to accept the reduction of 6½ per cent. in wages under protest, but to resist the reduction of 10 per cent. proposed, and demand that an equal division of all classes of labor as all works shut down be enforced.

Big Prizes.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The American Base Ball association formulated a new rule Tuesday, giving prizes of $1,000, $750 and $500 respectively, to the three leading clubs at the end of the season. In addition, each member of the pennant-winning team will be presented with a badge, on which will be inscribed name, position and record.

Very Much Murdered.

LOUISVILLE, March 8—At Yuton post-office, near Nicholasville, Mrs. Katie Oheir was found dead with sixty-three bullet holes in her body. Amos Thomas and Frank and David Lewis are charged with the murder. No cause is assigned.

ASSASSINATED!

A Prominent Pittsburg Contractor is Mysteriously Murdered in Front of His Own Doorway.

PITTSBURG, March 8.—Peter Voelker, a well known stone contractor, was murdered in front of his own doorway, in the presence of his wife, about 11:30, last night, by a stranger, who had followed him from the city. The murderer fled, but afterwards returned to gaze upon his victim's ghastly face. He was recognized by Mrs. Voelker, but before she could give the alarm, he escaped and has not yet been apprehended.

The cause of the murder is a mystery. Mr. Voelker was an inoffensive German and quite well-to-do. He leaves a wife and three grown up children.

ALLEN O. MYERS MISSING.

The Most Prominent Defendant in the Tally Sheet Cases Wanted at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, March 8—Allen O. Myers' mysterious disappearance has emphasized the rumor that he fears the wrath of the court on account of his incendiary utterances in last Saturday's Enquirer. He was asked for immediately after court convened this morning, but the only tidings of him were contained in two or three ambiguous telegrams from the Enquirer office to the effect that he had "gone south."

Myers promised he would come at once in response to a telegram if the state would allow him to go home. A few days ago Judge Pugh directed the clerk to issue a forthwith attachment for him, and Sheriff Custer has gone "south" after him. The court adjourned at 2:30, without having done anything after dinner.

The state desires to recall Myers for the purpose of laying the foundation for additional testimony in rebuttal, as Myers was not examined on two or three conversations attributed to him by witnesses examined since he was on the stand.

A HUMAN HEAD

Found in the Possession of Two Toledo Dogs While Making a Meal of It.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 8.—Coroner Roulet has in his possession a human head, which was found in East Toledo by two dogs belonging to Mr. T. H. Hamilton, the bridge contractor, who lives on the river road, near the Smith Bridge company's works. The dogs apparently found the head in a hollow near the D. and M. railroad company.

They were discovered by Mr. Hamilton's hired man, who saw one of the dogs gnawing the head. It is not known whether it is a man's head or a woman's. The scalp has been torn off, and the flesh is off the lower part of the jaws. The head was evidently cut from the body by some sharp instrument. Coroner Roulet has announced that the head was placed in the garbage heap by some students of a Toledo medical college for the purpose of bleaching it.

E. A. E. HACKETT, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, MARCH 8, 1888.

THE Columbia City Post announces itself neutral in the preliminary congressional campaign and insists that all the democratic aspirants have equal rights before the convention.

THE Columbia City Post remarks: "Captain J. H. Rohm, of Fort Wayne, an old soldier and a prominent member of the G. A. R., also a Knight of Labor, has left the republican party and will in the future act with the democracy."

MR. JULIUS DEXTER, of Cincinnati, is one of the many prominent republicans who are now outspoken supporters of Cleveland and tariff reform. He is president of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad and says his conversion is due to Mr. Cleveland's honest message.

THE republicans are making a great stir over some party success in Maine municipal elections. Probably they have not heard from Elmira, N. Y., where a democratic mayor is elected by a plurality of 1,508 and the democrats elect six out of seven aldermen, and five out of six supervisors.

THE reports to the Indiana board of health show that pneumonia has caused more deaths than any other disease, 1,290 persons succumbing to its attacks. Measels stand second, with 259 deaths. This year measels have been very malignant, unusly the deaths caused by it are the result of the diseases which follow its track; this year the disease itself kills the victim. Whooping cough is abroad in the land, even excelling scarlet fever, which, this year, has not done much execution. The general health of Indiana is very good, excepting measles.

SECRETARY HELON, of the Indiana board of agriculture, is in daily receipt of letters from all parts of the state, stating that the past winter has been one of unusual severity on the growing wheat. This is attributed to the great amount of freezing weather, with scarcely any snow. The communications express great hope that the coming season may be favorable to the growth of corn, as observation has shown that a season succeeding a year of drought is generally characterized by heavy crops. The wheat, however, is considered to be already so much injured that even a favorable spring can not produce more than an average yield.

THE Providence Journal, the accepted organ of the New England manufacturers, thus pointedly discusses the necessity of free raw materials to benefit our productive industries:

The more we look into the desirability of free raw materials the more we shall find to support the claim. New England certainly should be a unit on this issue, for it is owing to free cotton and hides that two great branches of manufacturing are kept active, and free wool would start up the third great industry in a way that would be felt at once in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. To be able to manufacture a single line of men's wear which is now imported would double the size of the city of Providence and give employment to 50,000 people.

THE newspapers of the country are agreed that an investigation of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy strike by congress is entirely useless. The engineers on the Burlington line were classified, that is, they were paid according to the stages of efficiency attained or length of service. Their pretext for a strike is that when the riper experience and tested fidelity of the engineers entitled them to a higher standard of wages, the company discharged them and engaged new and cheaper help in their places. To overcome this discrimination, the brotherhood men demanded a uniform scale of wages. The railroad company denies the impeachment of the engineers and refuses to accede to their demands. A congressional committe may look over these facts until dooms day, but can apply no remedy. It cannot command an arbitration, nor can it compel either the railroad company or the engineers to accept a particular set of terms.

THE Gazette is doing some very original tariff thinking. Its latest discoveries reveal to us that the excessive protective taxes do not increase the price of the protected commodities to the users and consumers. It makes this assertion in the face of the existence of monopolies, trusts and greedy combines organized and reared to exact enormous profits from their tariff protected interests. The people must pay them fixed, schedule prices and wage-workers must combine to exact even living wages from these plundering corporations. But the glowing over sights are no less surprising than the out cry that a reduction of the war tariff will injure the industries. Why, the enactment of the Mills bill would leave the average duty higher than it was under the Morrill tariff in 1863. It would leave it higher than was proposed by the republican tariff commissioners in 1883. It will add no more to the free list, with the exception of wool, than was recommended by President Arthur and Secretary Folger. Besides, this country never had a protective tariff until along in 1865. Did it not grow and prosper up to that date? Have not wages always been higher here than in the Old World alike under low tariffs and high tariffs? Are they not relatively higher to-day in the non-protected than in the protected industries? What sense is there in the cry that it will be a calamity to make sugar and clothing cheaper and to relieve salt, lumber and fibres and chemicals used in manufactures from needless taxation? The idea is preposterous on the face of it.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

Ashley Smith Held for Beating Young Noah Webber.

Ashley Smith was arraigned before Justice Ryan this morning on a charge of assaulting Noah Webber, a boy aged fifteen years. Young Webber is a son of the gentleman who keeps the feed and sale stable on Pearl street, and recently came here from Decatur.

Smith struck the lad yesterday and knocked him down. He then kicked him into the gutter and inflicted such injuries that make his recovery doubtful.

The boy is unable to leave his bed and Smith was committed to jail without bail to await developments in the boy's condition.

Attention Democratic Voters.

Said delegates to be apportioned as follows: Wayne township, 6 votes; 1st ward, 6 votes; 2nd ward, 7 votes; 3rd ward, 6 votes; 4th ward, 6 votes; 5th ward, 8 votes; 6th ward, 6 votes; 7th ward, 10 votes; 8th ward, 9 votes; 9th ward, 6 votes.

And the voters of the 2nd and 5th wards are requested to elect one committeeman from the 1st precinct of each ward, to serve on the democratic central committee. By order of township central committee.

Death of Judge Brownlee.

MARION, Ind., March 8.—Judge John Brownlee, the oldest member of the Grant county bar, died at 6 o'clock this morning, at the age of seventy-three years. Judge Brownlee was conspicuous in the early history of Indiana. He was a member of the first constitutional convention from Franklin county, and afterward served four terms in the legislature. In 1854 he was elected prosecuting attorney of the Eleventh circuit, and in 1854 was appointed judge. He had resided at Marion for forty years. He leaves a widow and four children, one of whom is Hon. Hiram Brownlee.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES writes of the project to purchase and retain inviolate the home of John G. Whittier: "No tribute which the women of New England or America can pay to Mr. Whittier will do more than express all he deserves of them and of all of us. The home of the poet of New England scenery and legend, of American freedom, of human rights and humanized religion, of peace and goodwill on earth, and hope for every soul in all worlds, will be more precious as a single shrine than in the form of a shipload of relics. I fervently hope it may be kept as inviolate as the Santa Casa."

SAM W. SMALL, of Atlanta, Ga., the well-known evangelist, is a tall, thin man, with a pale face, set off with a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles. He wears a slouch hat and a frock coat partially buttoned, and talks as if he came from the South. He resembles a student who has been poring over occult problems for a long time without sufficient outdoor exercises. His hands are small, like a woman's, with long, tapering fingers. He does not look prematurely old, his hair being black without any streaks of gray. His constitution, though, as he himself admits, received a severe shock during the years of his dissipation, from which it has never recovered. His voice is not as pleasing and musical as Sam Jones', but is rather harsh. "Old Si" has changed very much since he delighted a large number of readers with his inimitable negro dialect philosophy. He said he used to delight to go and hear Bob Ingersoll speak atheism, and would have been his disciple to this day, but he always thought of the time when he was a boy and said prayers at his mother's knee when he left the lecture room.

The Funereal Month of March.

An observant metropolitan barber says that he can tell one's physical condition by the state of the hair!

The Bible tells us that with his hair gone Sampson lost his strength. The Romans considered baldness a serious affliction and Julius Cæsar was never quite satisfied with himself because his poll was bare.

The face, however, is the open book and one can readily trace in its various expressions, lines, changes and complexion the state of the system.

The eye that is unusually bright and yet has a pallid brightness, the face upon whose cheeks nature paints a rose of singular beauty and flush, more marked in contrast with the alabaster appearance of the forehead and nose and lower part of the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funereal month of March, because it is then that consumption reaps its richest harvest. Consumption they tell us is caused by this that and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro-organisms in the blood, by deficient nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the lungs.

That is all there is of it.

The cough is an evidence of a wasting. To stop it effectually, a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warners's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy. This is no new fangled potion of narcotics and poisons, but an old-fashioned preparation of balsams, roots and herbs, such as was used by our ancestors many years ago, the formula of which has been secured exclusively by the present manufacturers at great trouble and expense. It is not a mere cold dryer. It is a system-searcher and upbuilder and a consumption expellant. Where others fail, it wins, because it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system.

J. W. Hensaw, of Greensboro, Pa., on January 15, 1886, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy than he had for years from the best state physicians."

If you have a cough, night sweats, "positive assurance in your own mind that you, oh—you, have no consumption," and yet lose flesh, appetite, courage, as your lungs waste away, you may know that soon the funereal month of March will claim you, unless promptly and faithfully you use the article named. If other remedies have failed try this one thoroughly. If others are offered, insist the more on trying this unequaled preparation.

Some persons are prone to consumption and they should never allow the disease to become seated.

Working In a Mustard-Mill.

I am employed in a mustard-mill where we daily grind hundreds bushels of the strongest mustard seed, then sifting it and preparing it for the trade. We also grind pepper and spices, occasionally preparing cayenne pepper. I work eight to ten hours a day in the fine dust that floats in the atmosphere of the room you couldn't hardly come inside, without sneezing for hours after. Yet I am fat, hearty, and do not know what sickness is. I make good wages and have worked many years at it, but there is one drawback. Wherever the greases in the skin made by the joints, etc., are the mustard and pepper get in, the first acting the same as a mustard-plaster and the pepper irritating until sometimes the inflammation and sores are awful.—Philadelphia News.

THE great-hearted philanthropy of the New England railroad manager was exemplified the other day when a constant patron of a local Boston road presented a big petition from other constant patrons, asking that the cars be better lighted, for, as they were, it was next to impossible to read in them. "Why do you want to read in them?" asked the manager. "Don't you know it hurts your eyes to read in the cars? It is one of the worst habits you could get into. Don't do it; break yourself of it. I shan't put in better lamps, for if I did more people would read in the cars and there'd be more eye diseases. Don't read in the cars. They weren't made to read in?"

Opinion of a Leading Editor.

Almost all the diseases that afflict us from infancy to old age have their origin in a disordered liver. A really good liver medicine is the most important in the whole range of pharmacy. We believe Simmons Liver Regulator to be the best among them all. We pin our faith upon the Regulator, and if we could persuade every reader who is in ill health to buy it, we would willingly vouch for the benefit each would receive.—Ed. Cincinnati Gazette.

That's So

Relief is certain for the despondent feelings of the dyspeptic, the constipated habit of the sedentary, the headaches of the nervous and bilious, by the simple use of Simmons Liver Regulator,—easy to take, not nauseating or disgusting, not more bitter than a glass of beer and far more grateful. It is no intoxicating beverage, but it tones up the system, settles the stomach, assists digestion, regulates the bowels, and stimulates the Liver. Take it once and and you will discard all other medicines.

"I have used many remedies for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Debility, but never have found anything to benefit me to the extent that Simmons Liver Regulator has. I would advise all who are similarly affected to give it a trial as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve."—P. M. FARNEY, Minneapolis, Minn.

The certainty with which this remedy acts has astonished the Medical Profession and secured for itself unbounded praise. Its virtues consist in being so gentle a cathartic, tonic and alterative, that in its operation it does not interrupt the usual duties of life, but acts so naturally that the system is not upset or afterwards constipated. It attacks all bilious disorders and sluggishness of the Liver; is harmless, and can be taken at any time without fear of injury.

"I have been a user of Simmons Liver Regulator for years, having made it my only family medicine. It is a sure, good and reliable medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it."—Rev. JAS. M. HOLLINS, Pastor M. E. Church, Fairfield, Va.

SICK HEADACHE.

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness with mental depression, a disposition to pick the nose, and debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 3003 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

REVOLUTION IN JAPAN.

The Liberalism of That Country Undergoing a Change—Despotic Methods.

Japan's misnamed liberalism, hastily defined twenty years ago, is crackling at the seams, and shows the same old despotism that ruled without any profession of regard for public opinion up to the revolution of 1868. In that year the Liberal leaders succeeded in demolishing the whole feudal system, and bodily transferred Japan from eastern to western political methods. As often happens, these very leaders, Liberals to gain power, became Conservatives when once they had grasped it. Before the brakes could be put on, progress had wrung from the mikado's ministers the promise that a parliament should be convened in 1890. That year is not far off, but the parliament is distant.

The ministers of the mikado have, after the Oriental manner, summarily postponed reform by arresting many reformers, and by "purifying" the army in the most approved fashion. The army was supposed to be infected with liberalism; and many of those who were suspected before the coup d'etat of December are now dead. The thunderbolt fell on Dec. 27. An imperial rescript dated two days before "proclaimed" all the secret societies and assemblies and open air meetings. The police were also authorized to arrest and banish all "suspected" persons found within eight miles of the palace. Of course, all courtiers and all officials who dissented from the reactionary policy of Premier Ito were "suspected." In a word, Japan was suddenly placed under martial law.

So decided a step necessarily needed a pretext, and a conspiracy to assassinate Ito was officially discovered. Ito, who models himself on Bismarck, is a believer in the blood and iron policy, with this difference, that he has no particular aversion to shedding blood on the scaffold, a form of bloodthirstiness with which the great chancellor cannot truthfully be accused. Ito, since he got home from his tour of Europe, has only bided his time to head off the parliamentary movement, and now believes he has accomplished his object. His methods are those peculiar to despotisms. The army is increased and liberally paid; the laboring masses are kept busily employed on unnecessary railroads and expensive public works, and the school appropriations are cut down. All this is characteristically "absolute."—Boston Transcript.

Smooth Worn Silver Coin.

A short time since Deputy Postmaster W. S. Leake, when paying money into another federal office in this city, was informed that a silver coin that had become smooth from usage could not be accepted, and was refused. As such coin had been received at the postoffice for stamps, etc., in the transaction of business, the question became an interesting one, and believing it could not be rejected as mutilated coin, a half dollar which had been refused acceptance was forwarded to the secretary of the treasury for his decision, and the following reply has just been received by Postmaster Stephens:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2, 1888.

SIR.—I return herewith, as requested, the silver half dollar inclosed in your letter of the 30th ult., with the information that the coin has been examined by experts in the office of the treasurer of the United States, and would be accepted if presented at that office for deposit or redemption, as there is no law or regulation under which it could be declined, it being simply worn smooth by natural abrasion.

Under department's regulations of Aug. 1, 1882, copy inclosed, mutilated silver coins are not redeemed, but "reduction by natural abrasion is not considered mutilation." Respectfully yours,

HUGH S. THOMPSON, Assistant Secretary.

A Tall Musical Story.

A young lady who is a very fine vocalist was telling me an incident of an annoying experience with a tuneful breastpin. Her attention was first directed to the music in her ornament on an occasion when she was particularly anxious to show the sweetness of her voice. As she sang she became conscious of a shrill, harsh and metallic sound, like a loose wire of a piano. She stopped in the middle of the song and asked if there was not something wrong.

It was readily seen that the piano was all right, and the only inference left was that the discordant noise was her own. She was deeply mortified, and it was not till some time afterward, and after several repetitions of her former experience, that she discovered the source of the sound—a loose ornament of a breastpin which she wore close to her throat. The vibrations of her vocal chords were transmitted in some way to this pin, thus setting the ornament in motion, which grated against its setting and created a most disagreeable noise.—Louisville Post.

Who Stopped the Train?

When a railroad train was about five miles out of Nashville the other day it was stopped and the engineer told that the conductor was not on board. The train was backed up and the wrathful conductor was taken on. A theatrical company, carrying a goat among its properties, was on board. Soon after leaving Nashville the second time the property man came back and asked who pulled the bell cord. No one knew. "The goat did it," said the property man, in a hoarse whisper. He then explained that the goat had climbed on top of a pile of trunks in the baggage car and discovered a small piece of cotton hanging to the bell cord. The animal at once began biting at the cotton, and by that means gave a pull on the bell cord, which had signaled the engineer to go ahead.—Chicago Herald.

Railroad Building Out West.

The western people apparently think no more of throwing down a railroad, if they want to go anywhere, than a conservative easterner does of taking an unaccustomed walk across country, and the railroad constructors and managers are a little amused at the eastern slowness and want of facility in construction and management. One hears that the east is antiquated, and does not know anything about railroad building. Shovels, carts and wheelbarrows are of a past age; the big wheel scraper does the business. It is a common remark that a contractor accustomed to eastern work is not desired on a western job.—Charles Dudley Warner in Harper's Magazine.

This Is What They Did.

When the issues of the twenty years from 1856 to 1876 were substantially settled the Republican party began to lose its vigor, because it seemed incapable of setting its face to the future and dealing with new questions. It lingered over the past and tried to keep up the sectional division when the people began to wish for its disappearance. It permitted grave abuses to make their way into the public service, and seemed to lack the vigor to grapple with them. The revenue system, which had been necessitated by the war and the public debt, had fostered powerful monopolies and built up special interests at the expense of the people, and these were concerned for their own perpetuation. They were permitted, in a great measure, to control the action of the party. Their money was at its service so long as their protection was guaranteed. Their rich representatives made their way into the party councils and obtained high places in legislation and administration. They dictated party declarations and had a dominating influence upon party action.—New York Times.

A Mighty Slander Platform.

The friends of Gen. Harrison—who, by the way, was never anything more than a colonel, and not a very gory one at that—out in Indiana, are making a great effort to secure a delegation to the Republican national convention favorable to his nomination for the presidency. This prompts us to remind them that an election was held in the Empire state a few months ago that was supposed to have put to rest for good and all the boomlets of Grant and Lincoln, the respective sons of their respective honored fathers.

Gen. Harrison is a very worthy but mediocre statesman, whose principal recommendation, so far as we can make out, is not that "he is the son of his father," but that "he is the grandson of his grandfather, 'Old Tippecanoe and Tyler too.'"

And that is a mighty slender platform to run upon, and don't you forget it, oh, men of Indiana!—New York Sun.

The New Postmaster General.

President Cleveland is to be congratulated in having put a Jacksonian Democrat at the head of the postoffice department. The new postmaster general is such, and he has proceeded to work in a very business like way, and after a fashion which should commend him to the hearty good will of all Democrats.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Boomerang Boom.

With Foraker forging to the front in Ohio, Uncle John Sherman's baby blizzard boom, which he fondly hoped would sweep over Ohio, now that Blaine is out of the way, appears to have exhausted all its energies in leveling some of his own fences.—New York Evening World.

The Opportunity May Come.

By all means let the Ohio men continue to shout for John Sherman. The Democrats who still bear in mind the frauds which put Rutherford B. Hayes into the White House, will welcome at the polls such an opportunity to settle up with the Ohio senator.—New York Sun.

A Thing of the Past.

It did not seem probable a few years ago, but it is now almost an accomplished fact, that the Republican officeholder has ceased to be a reality, and has become in the city of New York merely a reminiscence of a past and unregretted period of politics.—New York Sun.

How Since He Took Tilden's Seat.

R. B. Hayes has come out with an expression of deep commiseration for American sheep, in case the duty on wool is removed. It will not surprise the country to know that Hayes has been feeling sheepish for some time.—Alta California.

A Gentle Reminder.

Those persons who think that Blaine will no longer try for the presidency are earnestly asking: "Who is Blaine's heir?" It does not appear to have occurred to them that there may be a pocket in Blaine's political shroud.—Chicago News.

No Doubt About This.

If the convention were to nominate me I would not accept," says Gen. Sheridan. Oh, yes, you would, general, you'd accept p. d. q. Good American citizens like you are not throwing away presidential nominations.—Kansas City Times.

A Slap at Ingalls.

Ingalls' reading of Washington's farewell address was rather impatiently listened to by the members of the senate. Probably a good many of them were sorry that it wasn't Ingalls' farewell address.—Chicago Herald.

And It Will not Either.

Republican organs are claiming that their party is rich in presidential timber, but a little thing like this doesn't prevent the party from selecting a man weak enough to insure his defeat.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Question of Time Only.

What are we to do about all those rebel flags that Republican secretaries of war, from Stanton down, have returned to the ex-rebel states? Ought not the Republican party to be abolished?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A True Statement of Affairs.

The Democratic party is much stronger everywhere than it was in 1884, and is threatened by none of the dissensions which so seriously handicapped it in New York that year.—Brooklyn Citizen.

Plenty of Land on Hand.

The Democratic party was never so full of the courage of its convictions; never so ready to fight for them; never so sure that to fight is to win as it is now.—St. Louis Republican.

Two great enemies—Hood's Sarsaparilla and impure blood. The latter is utterly defeated by the peculiar medicine.

PRINCE BISMARCK is the possessor of forty-nine decorations of distinction aside from the distinction he bears of being able to drink more brandy during the delivery of a speech without showing the effects thereof than any other statesman in Europe.

Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in the spring of the year, to purify the blood, invigorate the system, excite the liver to action, and restore healthy tone and vigor to the whole physical mechanism. Remember that quality, not quantity, constitutes the value of medicine.

The Back Log in the Fire.

I have seen a good many ancient customs and opinions attacked in my time, but never until yesterday have I heard questioned the wisdom of keeping a "back log" in a wood fire. People who quarrel about every other detail in the original placing and subsequent poking of the sticks are united on the back log. The custom, moreover, has come down to us from our forefathers, who certainly had an experience in the matter of wood fires which their posterity do not enjoy; then, too, before the innovator lays a desecrating hand upon the back log, he ought to consider the memories and associations which have gathered about it. One should hesitate to knock the bottom, as it were, out of Mr. Warner's charming studies on this subject. What would be the feelings of that gifted writer if he were told that a back log, so far from being the main-stay and fountain-head, so to say, of the fire, is a useless, and in fact mischievous, encumbrance! This, however was the assertion which I heard yesterday from a lady of my acquaintance in Boston, as we sat in her drawing-room before a large and roaring fire. There was no back log, and the sticks were piled on a system of diagonal construction. "The great object," said my fair but heretical hostess, "is to have a network of crevices so that there shall be a draught of air throughout the fire. The back log simply takes up room." Perhaps, after all, the back log was chiefly intended as a storehouse of fire in the day before matches were invented. However, I hasten to say that I have no intention of dogmatizing upon a subject which has sundered so many friendships as has that which regards the proper construction and management of a wood fire.—Boston Post.

A BARBER in London has recently performed a rather clever feat. The shop was full of customers, and one of them was undergoing the operation of shaving, when it was noticed that the barber had his eyes closed, though he still kept passing the razor over the face of his visitor. After some time, and when the operation was finished, what was the surprise of those in the shop to hear the barber exclaim: "O no, not yet," at the same time opening his eyes. It then became evident that he was fast asleep, and had shaved the man while in that condition.

To Assist Nature

In restoring diseased or wasted tissue is all that any medicine can do. In pulmonary affections, such as Colds, Bronchitis, and Consumption, the mucous membrane first becomes inflamed, then accumulations form in the air-cells of the lungs, followed by tubercles, and, finally, destruction of the tissue. It is plain, therefore, that, until the hacking cough is relieved, the bronchial tubes can have no opportunity to heal. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

the inflamed membrane, arrests the wasting process, and leaves no injurious results. This is why it is more highly esteemed than any other pulmonary specific.

L. D. Bixby, of Bartonsville, Vt., writes: "Four years ago I took a severe cold, which was followed by a terrible cough. I was very sick, and confined to my bed about four months. My physician finally said I was in consumption, and that he could not help me. One of my neighbors advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and before I had taken half a bottle was able to go out. By the time I had finished the bottle I was well, and have remained so ever since."

Alonzo P. Daggett, of Smyrna Mills, Me., writes: "Six years ago, I was a traveling salesman, and at that time was suffering with

Lung Trouble.

For months I was unable to rest nights. I could seldom lie down, had frequent choking spells, and was often compelled to seek the open air for relief. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which helped me. Its continued use has entirely cured me, and, I believe, saved my life."
